

Economic Policy Research Foundation of Turkey

Industrial Policy?

Güven Sak

May 10, 2013

Iran hasn't been successful in diversifying away from primary products

Pictorial representation of sectoral decomposition Iran's export basket (1995 and 2010, %)

1995

81% Petroleum oils, crude

4.5% Carpets, knotted

0.83% Raw skins of sheep

2.5% Other nuts

0.88% Semifinished products of nonalloy steel

2010

73% Petroleum oils, crude

8.0% Petroleum oils, refined

2.4% Petroleum gases

10% Iron ores and concentrates

0.88% Petroleum

10% Acrylics

0.68% Acrylic hydrazones

1.6% Polymers of ethylene, in primary forms

0.88% Other nuts

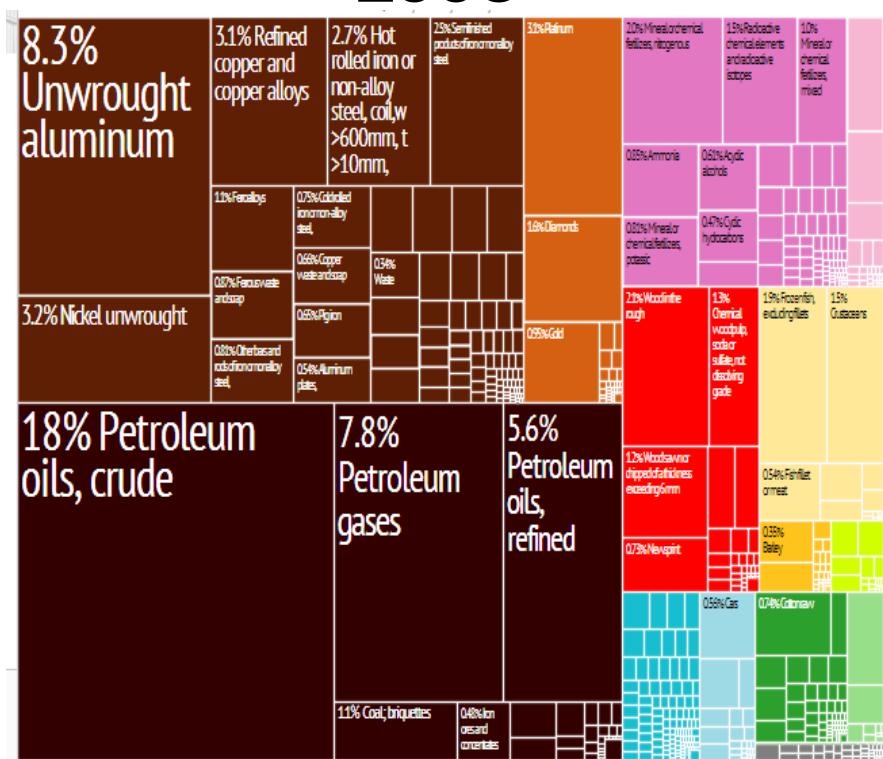

0.48% Refined copper

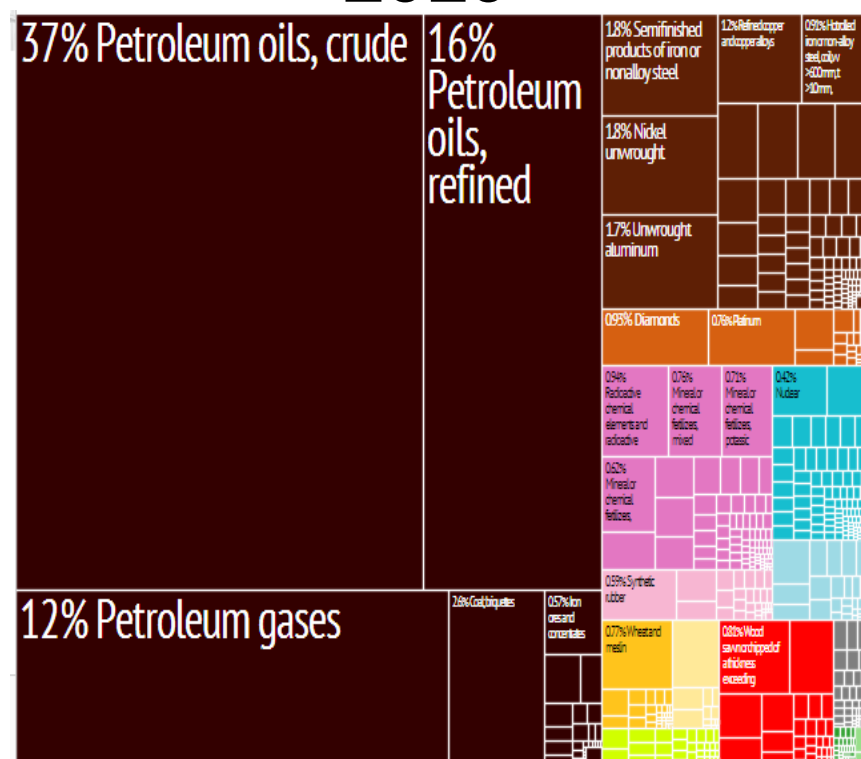

Russia has a more diversified export portfolio but natural resource products still dominate

Pictorial representation of sectoral decomposition Russia's export basket (1995 and 2010, %)

1995

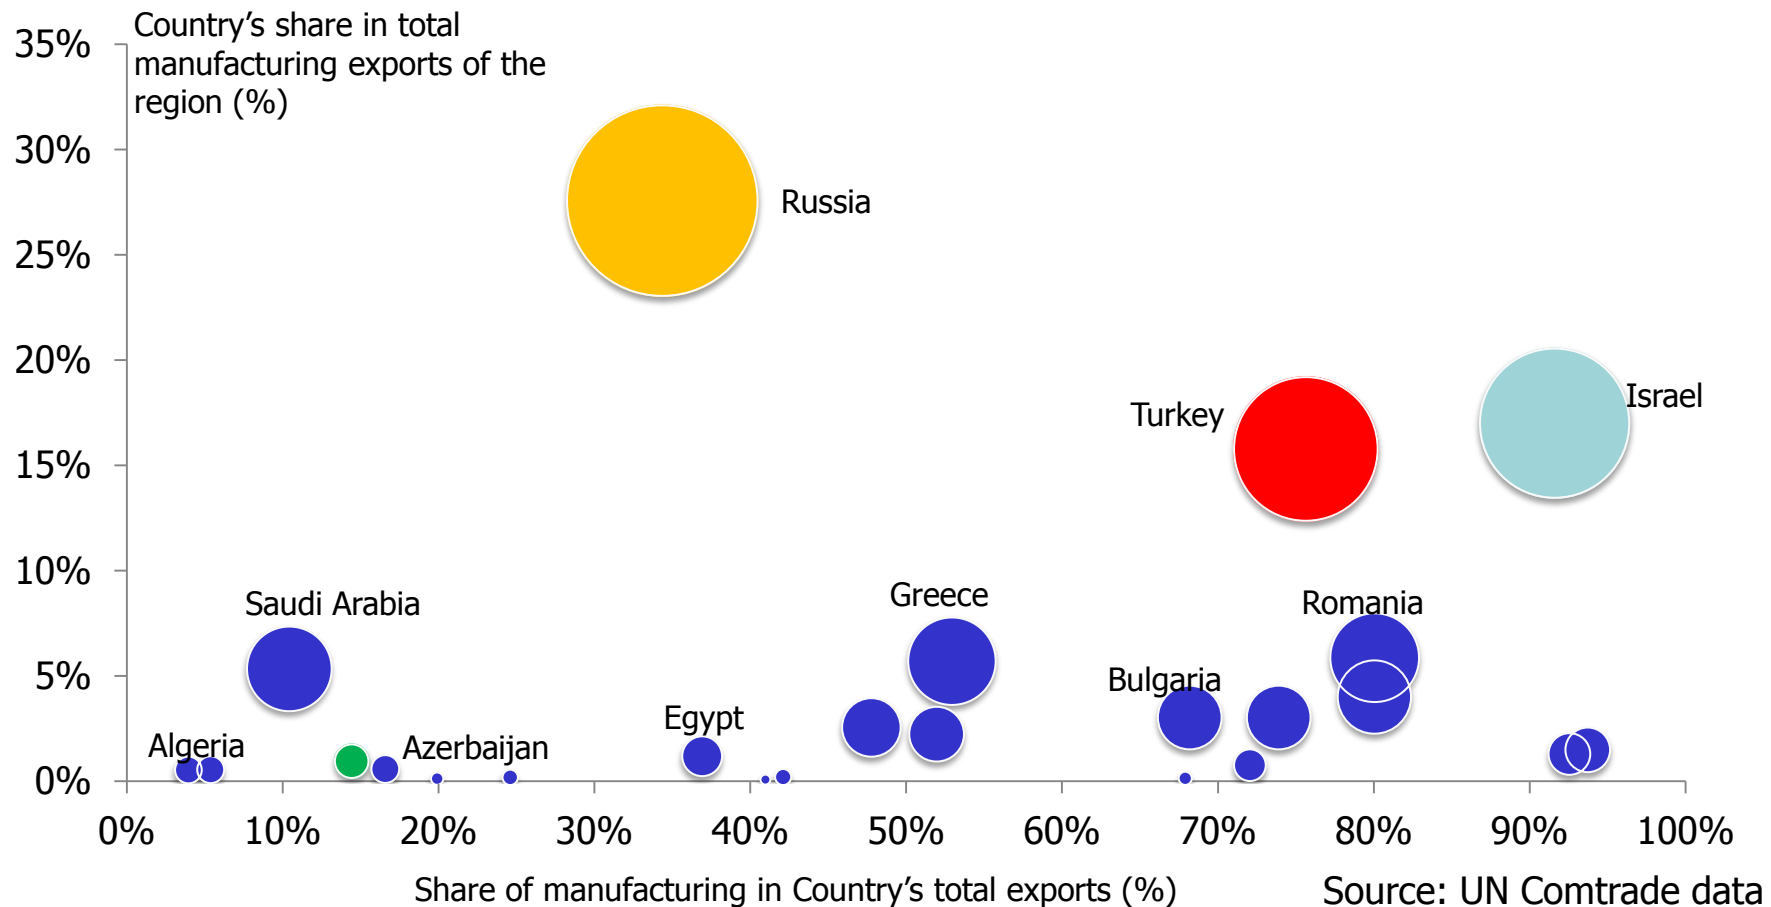

2010

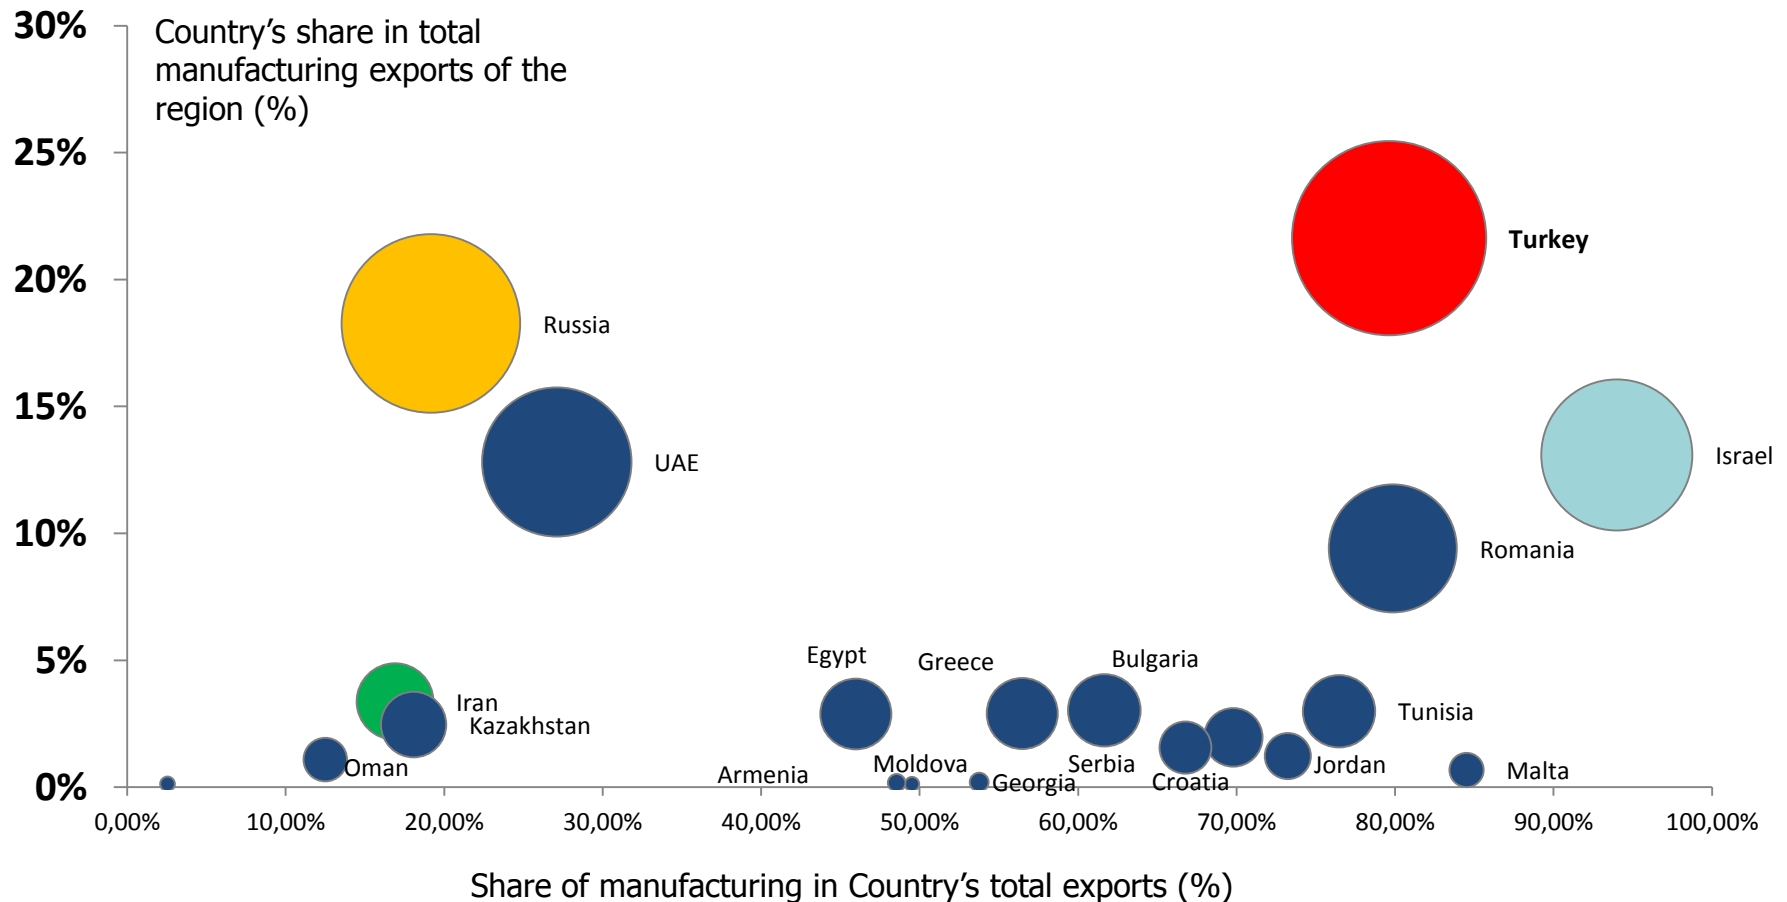

In 1990s, Turkey was one of the most important industrial economy of the region

Export indicators of the countries in the region (1996)

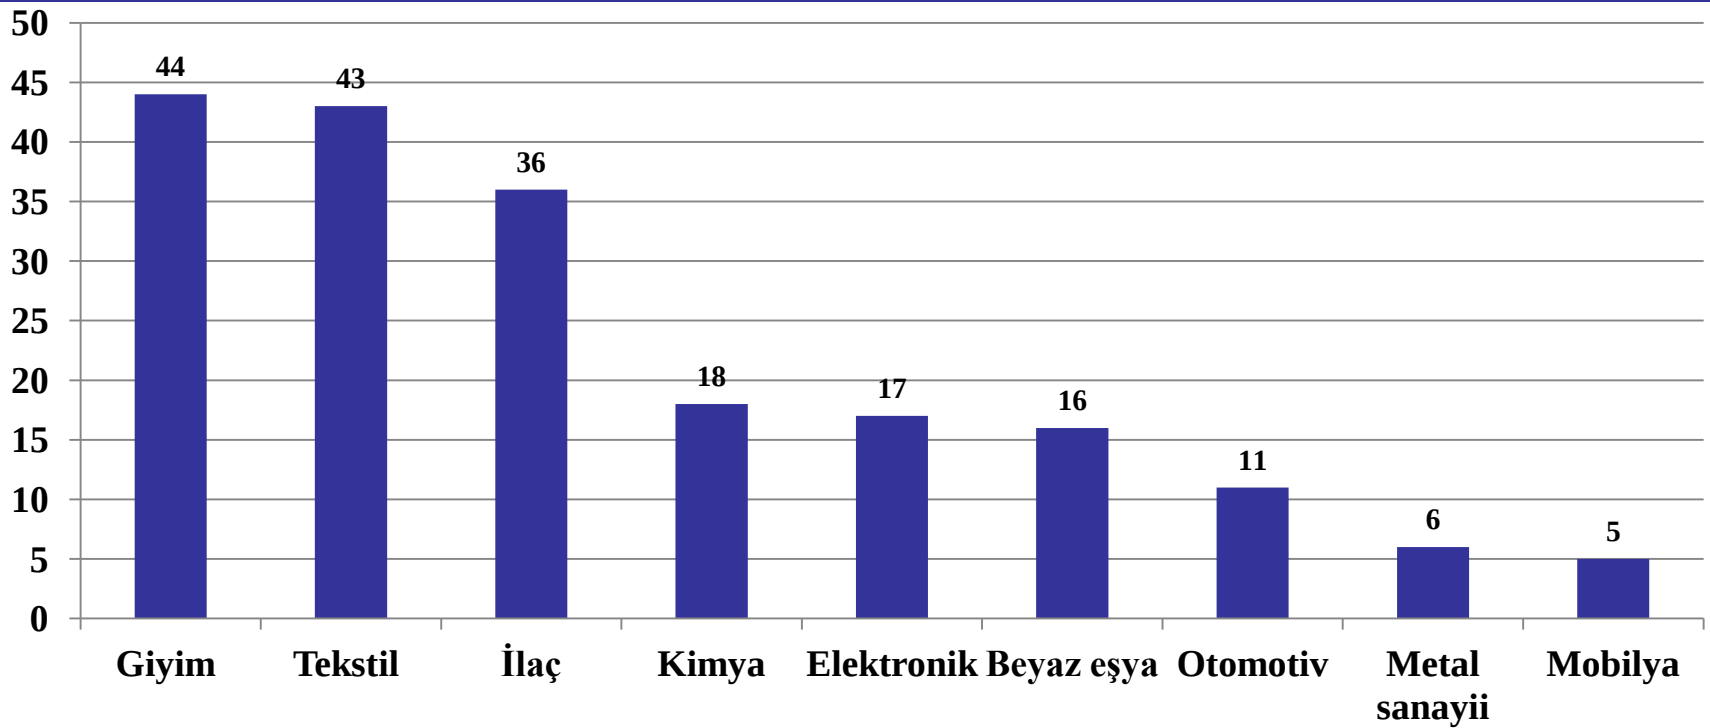

In 2010, Turkey has become the most most important industrial economy of the region

Export indicators of the countries in the region (2010)

Sektörlerdeki Çalışanlar İçinde Kadın Çalışanların Oranı, %, 2011

İşgücünün Meslek Grupları ve Cinsiyete Göre Dağılımı,%, 2010

■ Erkek ■ Kadın

